The Setting

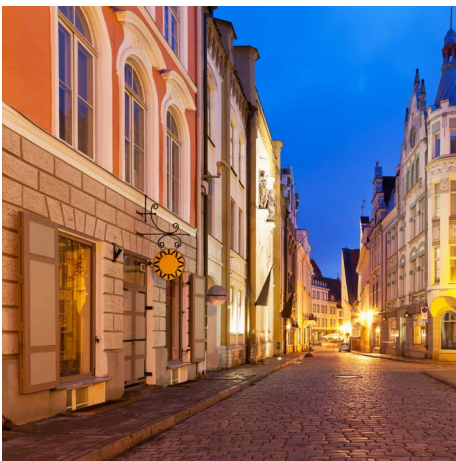

The Artistic Experience

United in Song is a blending of music from the United States and the Baltic countries. Multi-generational mixed choirs will have the opportunity to perform the European premiere of Elaine Hagenberg's "Illuminare" under the baton of Ryan Beeken. The Gala Concert will also include pieces by famed Baltic composers Eriks Esenvalds and Peteris Vasks. Artistic Director Ryan Beeken and Composer-in-Residence Elaine Hagenberg are developing a program that will unite singers and audience, creating an immersive experience for all participants. Additionally, fully balanced choirs have the opportunity for a spotlight performance during the gala concert in Tallinn, Estonia's beautiful and historic capital city.

The Singing Revolution & Estonia

In the Baltics singing is cultural and historical. Choral music was vital in establishing a sense of national identity during the many years of occupation. During the tragic times of Soviet rule their culture, heritage and even battle for independence were expressed through choral singing. The history of the Baltic Nation of Estonia is a story set to song. When independence was finally achieved in 1991 mass singing festivals became the focus of national pride and a cultural celebration of their new freedom. Estonia's UNESCO world heritage capital city Tallinn is rich with cultural and architectural diversity. This charming city fuses modern with medieval with a fairytale town square along with a mix of church spires, glass skyscrapers, baroque palaces and buzzing sidewalk cafes.
